A plate appropriately engraved sets forth the name of the recipient, the date and the donors. Mr. Coop was taken completely by surprise and was much affected by the token of regard.

Why She Could Not Tell.
"What was the text, Jane?" asked Mr. Tribbles, as his wife came home from church.

Mrs. Tribbles had to confess that she had forgotten it. "Or, rather," she added, "I lost it. In fact, I didn't get it."

"When I fall to remember the text you always want to know why. What was the reason that you didn't get it?" "Something happened that drove it from my mind."

"What was it that happened?" "Well, if you must know," said his wife, rubbing her nose, "just as the preacher was about to give out the text a moth flew along right in front of me. You know well enough what a woman does when she sees a moth. Of course, I couldn't clap my hands there in church and crush it between them, but I spread out my handkerchief, made a dash motion, and folded it together. Then I pressed it tightly. 'I got the moth, but I lost the text.'--Youth's Companion.

COUNTRY BOY GETS INTO TROUBLE

HAD A GIRL IN SALT LAKE HE DESIRED TO VISIT.

Dressed Himself in the Best "Second Hand" Goods--Instead of Going to Zion He Went to Jail.

The daily police grind was again remarkable for the number of petty larceny cases on the docket, most of the defendants being young men in their teens, exhibiting marks of home-training and an unfamiliarity with court and criminal proceedings. C. W. Spreckhart, charged with the theft of a sweater, pleaded not guilty. Several witnesses were examined, including the old gentleman who owned the garment. The latter stated the sweater had been taken from under his pillow and he had later identified the same in Alford's second-hand store on Grant avenue, where it had been sold. Seated beside the defendant was young McCloster, himself charged with petty larceny. Officer Chambers stated that McCloster was working at Alford's when the sweater was sold and the latter was called to the stand. He stated that he thought Spreckhart was the man who sold the sweater, but was not able to swear to the fact. The court then discharged the defendant, as no other proof of his guilt was forthcoming.

George McCloster was then arraigned on the charge of annexing a quantity of clothing alleged to be the property of his former employer, Alford. The second-hand man, McCloster pleaded not guilty. Alford stated that he had taken pity on the young man upon his arrival from Brigham City and had agreed to give him employment at his store for his board and lodging and $1 a week for spending money. He said that McCloster had worked a few days and then proceeded to fit himself out from the stock in the store and attempted to go to Salt Lake. The goods alleged to have been stolen included an overcoat, hat, eight case, two wallets and some eye-glasses.

J. Humphrey, another clerk, was called to the stand and stated that McCloster had taken a vest belonging to him and a hat. The defendant was then given a chance to explain matters. He said that Alford had agreed to furnish him with clothing, food and lodging and a dollar per week for spending money. He wanted to go to Salt Lake on the day in question to see a girl friend, and not thinking that Alford would object, had made preparations to get as far as the station before phoning his intentions of making the trip. He said Alford had allowed him to wear the clothes he had on and that Humphrey had loaned him the hat and vest. He denied all intentions of stealing the property, and had intended to return the next day and continue with his job.

After considerable cross-examining of the witnesses, the court decided that McCloster was guilty of attempting to get away with clothing that did not belong to him and fined the defendant $10 or ten days, saying that a boy of 18 years must learn to respect the property of others.

A marriage license was issued this afternoon to Peter Christensen, Jr., and Georgia Jordan, both residents of Ogdens.

MINISTER CUT HIS THROAT

Murderer of Browning Commits Suicide at Carthage, Ill.

Carthage, Ill., Jan. 11.--Rev. John H. Carmichael, wanted for the murder of Gideon Browning at the Rattle Run Methodist church in Michigan, last Tuesday night, cut his throat in a boarding house here last night and died at noon today.

He left a letter to the sheriff at Port Huron, near where the murder of Gideon Browning was perpetrated, asking him to come for his body. Carmichael cut his throat from ear to ear.

Carmichael, in his letter, declared that he killed Browning and cut up the body while under the hypnotic influence of his wife.

Adair, Mich., Jan. 11.--"Really, really, have they really found him?" was Mrs. Carmichael's exclamation when told that her husband had been found in Carthage, Ill. She took the news calmly, in fact, seemed almost relieved to know that the much-sought man had been located.

"I know of no reason why he should have gone to Carthage," she continued. "He had no relatives there and no friends that I ever knew of."

Sheriff Bertch said that Carmichael in the letter told the story of the killing in a graphic manner. He claimed Browning exerted some sort of hypnotic influence over him, and that when he entered the church, Browning attacked him with two knives. Carmichael added that he then picked up a hatchet and proceeded to hack away until he thought Browning was dead.

GOV. HADLEY IS FOR A BETTER MISSOURI

HE IS FIRST REPUBLICAN TO HOLD OFFICE SINCE 1871.

He Declares That Laws Effecting Saloons and Breweries Will Be Strictly Enforced.

Jefferson City, Jan. 11.--Herbert S. Hadley was inaugurated as governor of Missouri at noon today. He is the first Republican to hold the office since 1871. Wind and snow made the day uncomfortable, but despite wintry conditions, the program of a parade and review of the state troops was carried out as planned. The oath of office was administered by Judge Henry Lamm, the only Republican member of the supreme court of the state.

Governor Hadley reviewed briefly the administration of his predecessor, called attention to the changes in the system of government in the state due to the adoption of initiative and referendum amendment at the November election and then took up the questions of some rule and law enforcement.

"It has been asserted that home rule means the abrogation or nullification of the laws of the state," he said, "and particularly the laws regulating dram shops in the large cities. Home rule means no such thing. As I said during the last campaign, the laws providing for the regulation of dram shops will still remain the laws of the state until a majority of the people's representatives want them changed."

The governor declared that changes are made in the laws so that the police and other city departments now in control of the state administration are turned over to the municipalities, there should be some "reserved power" by which the state can resume control should necessity arise. The new governor gave his audience to understand that the laws regarding Sunday closing of saloons would be enforced during his administration.

LEGAL

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Ogdens Fruit Canal and Water company will be held at the Court House, on Monday, January 11, 1909, at 7:30 p. m. for the purpose of hearing the financial report of the secretary and treasurer for the year 1907; also to vote on the rate of assessment for the year 1909, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

A. D. CHAMBERS, Secretary. Dated Ogdens, Utah, Dec. 30, 1908.

NOTICE.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of The Ogdens Fruit Growers Association will be held at the Court House in Ogdens on January 12, 1909, at 10 o'clock a. m. for the purpose of electing a board of seven directors and to transact such other business as may regularly come before the meeting. It is desired that all stockholders be present at this meeting.

J. E. WRIGHT, Secretary.

and he followed the recommendation of Governor Folk, that laws should be passed prohibiting breweries from holding interests, direct or indirect, in saloons. He also recommended that the abuse of the "lid club" system be corrected by requiring "all clubs of any character, which dispense intoxicating liquors to their members, to pay a license to the state."

State-wide prohibition was condemned and the residential, rather than ward, option system recommended.

Governor Hadley declared himself in favor of the creation of an appointive public service commission and an anti-pass law.
